

Are You Having a Lightbulb Moment?

The Beckwith Institute wants to help you turn your idea or inspiration into a reality.

The Beckwith Institute is accepting applications for the Frontline Innovation grant program, which focuses on funding innovative ideas that positively impact patient care.

Maybe you have an idea that will help facilitate more efficient or effective care, or that will focus on expanding educational opportunities for staff.

No idea is too big or too small.

The Next Big Idea Could Be Yours

Grants are available to any UPMC employee or University of Pittsburgh employee who partners with a UPMC employee. Grants are available up to $10,000.

To begin the application process, fill out the interest form. You will receive an email with a grant application to complete.

Application Timeline

- Monday, June 19
Application window opens
- Monday, July 31
Applications are due
- August and September
Review process will take place
- Monday, Oct. 16
Grants will be awarded

Your ideas and research are critical to helping UPMC continue to make life-changing advancements.

Visit BeckwithInstitute.org to learn more about the Frontline Innovation Program or contact Cassandra Heinle, program manager, at heinlecm@upmc.edu with any questions.

UPMC
LIFE CHANGING MEDICINE

THE BECKWITH
INSTITUTE | Patient Care Innovation
Today and Tomorrow